About Me

As a college student, I am adept at managing my time and handling multiple responsibilities. I am a quick learner and enjoy taking on new challenges. I recently completed a Web Application Development course from Aptech Learning, where I gained valuable knowledge and skills in various web technologies.

Work Experience

Recent Completed my Full-Stack Development Course from Aptech Learning. Eager to learn and grow in an entry-level position, and confident in my ability to contribute to the team with my strong skills in frontend and backend development.

Have created a variety of personal projects, including a portfolio website, a social media platform, and an e-commerce website. These projects have given me experience with a wide range of web development technologies, including HTML, CSS, JavaScript, Php, and MySQL.
